Water Plans Are Plugged By Kennedy

Administration Has Gone All-Out For Projects, He Says

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—President Kennedy, fighting hard for voter enthusiasm in the Rocky Mountain region, argued today that his administration has gone all-out for water resource projects.

Swinging into the third day of his 10,000-mile Western speaking tour, Kennedy plugged for his water projects after making an emotional foreign policy address late Wednesday at Billings, Mont., before spending the night in Grand Teton National Park, in neighboring Wyoming.

Kennedy flies to Great Falls from Grand Teton today before winging into Washington and Utah. But even before he left Grand Teton, the traveling White House made public the prepared text of his Great Falls talk.

In an obvious bid to whip up support in the water-conscious West, which voting returns indicate has become increasingly conservative, Kennedy recalled that in the 1960 presidential campaign he pledged "a reversal of the policy of 'no new starts.'"

Kennedy said that by mid-1964 "we expect to have approved new construction starts on a total of 211 water resource projects and 182 watershed projects" costing about $4 billion.

This was a direct assault on the Eisenhower administration which, for budgetary reasons, at one point proclaimed a policy of "no new starts" on costly multipurpose water projects involving power, reclamation, recreation and flood control.

Kennedy also noted that in a Great Falls speech three years ago he promised "we would devote the benefits of public resources to the public good—that we would not permit them to be developed for the sole benefit of special interests."

In this context, he said that "in the past three years there have been no Hells Canyon blunders"—a reference to the fact that the Idaho Power Co. was licensed during the Eisenhower administration to build three low dams on the Snake River between Idaho and Oregon—in contrast to one federally financed high dam recommended by the Army Corps of Engineers.

At Billings Wednesday, Kennedy preached an anti-isolation sermon to a populace that has caused increasing worry to Montana's two Democratic senators, Mike Mansfield and Lee Metcalf. Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, will stand for re-election next year.

Kennedy started out with a stout defense of the Senate-ratified partial nuclear test-ban treaty, "not because we are going to be easier in our lives, but because we have a chance to avoid being burned."

The President said differences with the Soviet Union will continue but that the treaty represents the possibility of lessening "the chance of a military collision between these two great nuclear powers which together have the power to kill 300 million people in the short space of a day."

Edith Perils Coastal Areas In Caribbean

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Residents of the southern coastal areas of Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic and Haiti were warned today to flee to higher ground before the arrival of dangerous tides pushed up by hurricane Edith.

At 8 a.m. (EST), the 100-mile-an-hour storm was churning up the Caribbean Sea 175 miles south of Puerto Rico and increasingly heavy swells were racing toward that island.

This afternoon and tonight, following the passage of the hurricane, the San Juan Weather Bureau said flooding could be expected on the south coast and central regions of Puerto Rico.

Dangerously high storm tides, the Weather Bureau said, will reach the southern coast of Hispaniola (which embraces the Dominican Republic and Haiti) some time tonight.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center at Miami declined to predict what course the hurricane might take beyond the next 12 hours.

Mobster Due As Witness In Crime Probe

Valachi Scheduled To Face Senators Investigating Mafia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Valachi, the talking mobster, comes out of hiding today and travels to Capitol Hill for a private talk with senators investigating the Black Hand of the Mafia.

The star witness' appearance at the closed session was billed as a rehearsal for his testimony Friday when he gets his chance to put the finger publicly on his former bosses in the crime syndicate.

And a strong police escort will be on hand to make certain his debut on Capitol Hill won't be his swan song.

Reputedly the ruling commission of La Cosa Nostra has put a $100,000 price on his head.

Police believe any member of the syndicate could collect the bounty by killing the 60-year-old convicted dope peddler and murderer.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee arranged today's session to give its members a chance to appraise the story Valachi is expected to tell of brutal murder, crime for profit and terrorism.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., already has heard the story in two interviews with Valachi.

McClellan said he saw Valachi Tuesday and that he appeared to be in good spirits and eager to testify in revenge against syndicate leaders for having ordered him slain as a stool pigeon.

The subcommittee is exploring the affairs of a nationwide crime syndicate known to its members as La Cosa Nostra, and to others as the Mafia or Black Hand. Reputedly, a paper is burned in the hand of a new recruit to the secret criminal society as he takes an oath of secrecy and vows to obey any order without question.

Deputy Chief Inspector John F. Shanley of the New York City police testified Wednesday that to his knowledge Valachi is the first Cosa Nostra member who dared to abandon the credo of silence in the presence of police.

First Grade Pupils Look Teacher Squarely In Eyes

DARRINGTON, Wash. (AP) — First-grade pupils in Miss Frieda Groenvelde's class can look their teacher squarely in the eyes. She is 4 feet tall.

Being of a size with her pupils bothers neither Miss Groenvelde nor the youngsters.

"Children need an answer," she says. "When you give it to them, that's all they need."

This is her first month as a teacher and Miss Groenvelde admits she had the usual opening-day jitters of the new schoolma'am. One boy, clutching his mother's hand, looked the teacher in the eyes and asked: "How come you are so little?"

"I'm as big as you are," said the little teacher as the mother blushed. "Aren't we going to have fun?"

Fun is one of the nice things about being a first-grader here, but there is always order and respect. When Miss Groenvelde mounts her kitchen stool—she

8,790 Signed For Fall Vote On City Posts

East Liverpool has 8,790 registered for the Nov. 5 general election, when city officials will be named and several special questions and issues will be decided, the County Election Board said today after the voter enrollment closed Wednesday night at 10.

Seventy-three were registered in the final day. Forty-seven enrolled at the Election Board's office on W. 6th St. and 26 more signed at three branch registration offices that operated on the final day.

A branch registration office at the Louis-James Store on Mulberry St. enrolled 17, while eight signed at the North Side Fire Station and one registered at the Pleasant Heights School.

The registration total is far under the figure shown for some comparable elections in the past. The city's all-time registration high was shown in 1940, when 12,642 enrolled.

Registration always hits a peak every four years, just prior to a Presidential election, and then declines gradually each year until the next national election.

A continuing decline in voter registration in the post-World War II years has been blamed principally on migration to suburbs immediately outside the city limits in St. Clair and Liverpool Townships.

The exact registration total for the Nov. 5 vote will not be known until the board's staff completes the annual job of compiling and printing the so-called register of voters—an alphabetical list of all qualified electors.

The lists are posted in precinct polling places for inspection prior to the election. In addition, the board must remove from its rolls the names of persons who died in July, August and September, based on information furnished by the city Registrar of Vital Statistics.

Dominican's Power Held By Military

President Deposed; Cited As Leaning To Communism

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Rightist, anti-Communist military chiefs held power in the Dominican Republic today after deposing President Juan Bosch and accusing him of leading his country toward communism, economic ruin and war with neighboring Haiti.

Bosch, 54, a liberal intellectual, was expected to be sent into exile in Puerto Rico. But he apparently still was a prisoner.

Puerto Rican Gov. Luis Munoz Marin, a close friend, had expected Bosch in San Juan Wednesday night. An aide to the governor said he had learned Bosch had been taken to San Ysidro air base 9 miles from Santo Domingo. Bosch's wife and young son and daughter already were in San Juan, visiting Munoz Marin's family.

The Dominican military command said Bosch was "surrounded by all kinds of guarantees and considerations."

The United States suspended diplomatic relations with Santo Domingo and a $50-million aid program. The State Department said, "Any overthrow of a democratically elected government is a loss to the policies of the countries of this hemisphere, including our own."

The Dominican ambassador to Washington, Enrique Del Rosario, cabled the junta: "I will not serve an illegal, unconstitutional government."

He told a news conference: "Some of the newly rich businessmen, who were happy at making a profit under (the Trujillo) dictatorship, have been fighting the democratic government from the start."

The leaders of the bloodless coup summoned Bosch's political opponents to pick a "respectable man" to lead the nation of 3 million out of what they said was a chaotic state "brought about by administrative indecision."

Bosch was seized in his palace before dawn Wednesday. The bloodless coup ended his seven-month rule as the Dominican Republic's first freely elected president in more than 30 years.

Large Buyer Seen Lacking In Wheat Sale

WASHINGTON (AP)—In all the hub-bub over a possible sale of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union, at least one element is officially lacking: The big buyer.

Czechoslovakia, a member of the Soviet bloc, has approached the United States on the chance of a wheat deal. But Agriculture and State Department officials insist that the Soviet Union itself has made no move, either directly or indirectly.

However, action of President Kennedy in requesting two House committees to discuss the matter with two Cabinet members today was open to the interpretation that the government had knowledge that an offer was on the way.

The House Agriculture and Foreign Affairs Committees will go over the matter with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

271-155 Vote Given Fight Over Tax Cut Shifts To Senate As House Passes Bill

Big Victory Chalked Up By Kennedy

All-Out Drive In Senate Started For Approval This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed President Kennedy's $11-billion tax cut bill by a 271-155 vote, handing him one of the biggest legislative victories of his administration.

The battleground immediately shifts to the Senate, where administration forces already have launched an all-out drive for passage this year. The prospects are highly dubious.

If the Senate should approve the bill in its present form, ultimate reductions would range between $100 and $200 a year for most tax-paying families—more in the upper brackets.

The bill won the votes of 223 Democrats and 48 Republicans in the House roll call late Wednesday which capped two days of debate. Opposing passage were 126 Republicans and 29 Democrats.

Just before passage, the Democrats turned back, 226-199, a Republican-backed move to cancel the tax cut unless the President cut back spending below "the present rate."

The outcome was a special triumph for Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, who led the fight to prevent defections by Southern Democrats on the show-down votes.

The $11-billion reduction, largest in history, would be shared by practically all U.S. taxpayers. Both individuals and corporations would benefit.

Kennedy has called the measure the keystone of his economic program. He has made it clear the administration has placed its hopes on solving the gnawing unemployment problem through increased spending resulting from the tax cut.

Senate Democratic leaders voiced strong confidence they have the votes to pass the bill eventually. It will remain alive in 1964 if it fails to get through this year.

But the administration is pushing hard for 1963 passage so that the new reduced withholding can take effect Jan. 1. As the House passed the measure, two-thirds of the benefits for individuals would be effective at that time.

The drive for fast Senate action puts the spotlight squarely on Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Finance Committee chairman, who opposes any tax cut without offsetting spending reductions.

Byrd announced that his committee would begin closed-door briefings on the bill with congressional staff experts a week from today and that they will continue at least a week.

Helicopter Carrying 4 Lands On Freeway

A large helicopter carrying four persons landed on the unfinished stretch of the Freeway extension out Dresden Ave. shortly before noon, and the odd craft attracted much attention from passing motorists.

The pilot apparently landed to seek directions as the party took off in about 10 minutes and headed east.

It was a civilian craft. The State Highway Patrol said it passed over the Lisbon Barracks shortly before landing near the city.

British Chief Set For Fight With Critics

Macmillan Cited In Denning Report On Profumo Case

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan dug in today for an all-out battle with the Labor party opposition and critics within his own Conservative party over Lord Denning's report on the Profumo scandal.

In his 55,000-word document, Denning, Britain's second highest jurist, held that Macmillan and his ministers failed in their responsibility by not discovering and dealing with the romance between former War Minister John Profumo and prostitute Christine Keeler.

The prime minister plainly intended to fight back. He scheduled a radio address to the nation tonight.

Harold Wilson, the Labor party leader, was expected to renew his demand for a special session of Parliament—now in recess — to discuss the report, Macmillan has turned this request down once.

Denning emphasized he had found no breach of national security, nor any truth in widely circulated rumors that members of the cabinet indulged in wild sex lives.

Lodge Blasts Remark Made By Mrs. Nhu

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge charged today that Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu's description of junior U.S. Army officers here as "little soldiers of fortune" was cruel and insulting.

Mrs. Nhu, South Viet Nam's powerful first lady was sister-in-law of bachelor President Ngo Dinh Diem, also accused the officers of "engaging in irresponsible behavior." She issued the blast last week in Rome during her world tour to explain her ruling family's position in its feud with Buddhists.

"It is incomprehensible to me how anyone can speak so cruelly," Lodge said in his first public political statement since his arrival Aug. 22.

"It is a shocking statement. These junior officers are risking their lives every day. Some of them have been killed side by side with their Vietnamese comrades. These men should be thanked and not insulted."

2-Way Crash Injures 4 On 'Super-Road'

City Hospital Treats District Women In W. 8th St. Collision

Four women were treated at City Hospital for possible whiplash injuries of the neck Wednesday night after a halted auto was struck from the rear by another car on the "super-road" stretch of W. 8th St. at Jefferson St.

The injured were identified as: Mrs. Eleanor Sheppard, 49, of Calcutta, driver of the halted car, and her passengers, Mrs. Ruth Reynolds, 57, of Calcutta, Miss Linda Liebschner, 27, of 2801 St. Clair Ave., and Mrs. Doris Ann Evans, 45, of 818 Hill Blvd.

Police said Mrs. Sheppard's 1962 model sedan was halted on W. 8th St. for a traffic signal when hit from the rear by a 1953 sedan operated by James C. Jordan, 77, of Pittsburg.

Officers said two passengers in Jordan's auto were advised to see their family physicians. They were Mrs. Eve Gero and Mrs. Florence Russell, both of 1330 St. Clair Ave.

Jordan told police he attempted to halt behind the Sheppard car, but his accelerator stuck. Although he applied the brakes, he was unable to halt in time to avoid a collision. Both cars were headed east.

There was heavy damage to the front of Jordan's car and moderate damage to the rear of the Sheppard auto, police said. The crash was timed at 9:38.

Meanwhile, a Chester area man's auto was damaged slightly when he turned onto the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. tracks by mistake Wednesday night at 8:30.

Four-To-One On The Moon

President Kennedy's suggestion for a joint American-Soviet expedition to the moon is bound to stir a great deal of speculation about what motivated the proposal.

There is no way of knowing for sure, of course, but it is our guess Khrushchev was not unaware that this plan would be advanced before the United Nations.

There have been hints, if not outright confirmation, that the President and the Chairman have been exchanging a series of "Dear Nikita" and "Dear Jack" letters.

WHAT THEY are saying and proposing to each other has been held in strictest confidence, but it is quite evident there has been an exchange of points of view on a wide range of cold war problems.

It is felt, we are sure, that this type of behind-the-scenes informality offers a better climate for understanding than a public exchange of formal notes that get so involved in diplomatic double talk no basis for mutual trust can even be explored.

Furthermore, there is evidence of disenchantment with the lunar expedition in both countries.

Several months ago, Russia hinted at flagging enthusiasm for lunar work for reasons that were not divulged. The suspicion is that either the cost is too high or the technical difficulties too ponderous to overcome.

In the U.S., there has been a rising cry of protest over the exorbitant cost of this form of space exploration. A number of people believe that for the $20 billion to $40 billion estimated as the cost of a lunar landing we would gain more by devoting greater effort to potentially more rewarding space projects—or, perish the thought—simply saving the money.

IT MAY BE that the astronomical cost of the program has President Kennedy worried, too, and he may be fishing more for Soviet sharing of the expense than for sharing the rewards of accomplishment.

If a joint venture were to be agreed upon, we have no illusions about how the cost of the project would be shared.

Our off-the-cuff guess would be 80 per cent American dollars and 20 per cent Russian rubles.

Best Of Luck

Two more area residents—a nurse from East Liverpool and a Chester man who has had training as a civil engineer—are about to begin service with the Peace Corps.

Like those who have gone before them, an exciting, challenging life is in the offing as they begin careers in West Pakistan. Wendell Wilkie's "One World" cry echoes as one pictures the next 20 months for these two young people who will be doing their bit to bring more of America to far away places.

The two should be splendid representatives of the United States as they go about their daily endeavors. The best of luck to Harriet Whealdon and Edward Laughley.

Toughest Tactic In The Book

Remembering how long it took to disengage the United States from combat in Korea even after the pledge in the 1952 campaign to stop the war, Americans can expect similar complications in South Viet Nam.

One of the toughest tactics in the military book is pulling out of a war that cannot be won. First, there must be an admission to that effect—and today, more than 10 years after the truce in Korea, many Americans still think Korea should have been a victory. Truce talks started July 10, 1951, and ended two years and 17 days later.

Next, a scheme for avoiding an admission of defeat must be agreed on. It took six months to draw up a tenuous truce in Korea after the Eisenhower administration turned on the heat and even now the truce is still being maintained by constant and uneasy vigilance.

And finally, the truce-makers must enforce the terms they have made. This calls for a stable government. No one would bet the Diem government in South Viet Nam could survive over a long pull, or that the United States would commit forces to maintain a truce on the scale it has supported in Korea since 1953. As for the Communists in Viet Nam, so little is known of their political organization that its ability to maintain a truce is guesswork.

This is what the Kennedy administration is up against. The United States cannot guarantee victory to the South Vietnamese, and it cannot afford to pull out and let the Chinese Communists and their allies in North Viet Nam claim victory.

Somehow it must bring about a standoff, unless it decides to involve itself in a hopeless war.

The similarities between South Viet Nam and Korea are numerous and close. Once more, this country has learned the folly of putting its prestige on the line in a situation it cannot control over a dispute it cannot win.

Gold In Them Thar Urals

Nothing has melted the cold war between the United States and the Soviet Union like the prospect of getting surplus Russian gold for surplus U.S. grain.

If Canada could move its entire wheat surplus for a half billion dollars' worth of Russian gold converted into dollars, who can blame grain dealers in the United States for getting to Ottawa in a hurry to see what U.S. surpluses might be exchanged for the Russian gold hoard?

The government, meanwhile, is being non-committal about the prospect. But the fact is there is not and never has been any bar to doing business with the Soviet Union, other than the Soviet Union's disinclination to pay cash.

Keep Skirmishing

Political pogons are popping in early skirmishes for the great battle in 1964, and this is the Twill theory about what happens in presidential elections.

Almost nothing happens, because elections are what dramatists call anti-climaxes. They occur after the decision has been made. They confirm something already decided.

Presidential candidates are not important, as far as their being elected and defeated is concerned. As administrators, they usually are men of approximately equal ability. Either one would run the store.

Their importance is not as administrators anyway but as symbols of what voters think they want. This is why so many presidents, once elected, prove disappointing to the people who voted for them.

They were built up as something they never were. They were like actors playing a role unlike their real lives — and woe to any Gullible Gus who mistakes the illusion for the real thing.

EVEN POLLSTERS, who make a living out of guesswork, admit most voters make up their minds early in the game and never change them. Those voters skilled in separating fact from fancy rarely have any doubt about what is going to happen in a presidential election. They knew the last one would be close, and it was.

They know in advance who the candidates will be and how the race will go. But because pollsters and other guessers make a living out of keeping the ordinary run of boobs in suspense, we string along with their racket and keep on guessing until the official knocking-under statement by the defeated candidate after the votes are counted.

We go through the motions of debating with open minds and we mouth that old chestnut about may the best man win. We lay our bets and get red-necked with old friends and casual acquaintances.

Toward the end, we fly into frenzies and talk as if the fate of the nation was going to be decided in November, though our inner judgment tells us it was decided long before.

The Holy Cross Toad lives in the semi-desert of Central Australia. When it rains, the toad stores water in its body; in drought, it burrows deep in the hardening mud. Aborigines sometimes get a life-saving drink of water by squeezing the toad.

Valachi Had Role In Labor Racket

By Victor Riesel

Self-confessed killer Joe Valachi was a power in a wheeling and dealing section of Eastern labor. He was part of a combination which bought and sold union locals for anywhere from $2,000 to $50,000.

At one point Valachi, the government's prize "pigeon," had "Cosa Nostra's" permission to move in on the juke box, restaurant and bar jurisdiction ranging north from New York City to Syracuse.

Valachi and his band of hoodlums would not have had to abandon their vast narcotics business. Control of the juke box union would have been just another money-making operation, and the weapon for terrorizing some 4,000 businessmen in Westchester County and perhaps another 10,000 up the line to Syracuse.

Income from such a union would have been lucrative even for Valachi and his Manhattan Mafia, whose specialty was a multi-million dollar narcotics trade.

Valachi and his partners figured that at the launching, even a small local of juke box and coin machine "salesmen," mechanics and operators (who also would be forced to join) would bring in $50,000 the first year in one region.

This could be expanded to half a million dollars by moving upstate as well.

VALACHI'S INFLUENCE came from his awesome protectors — the late "Little Augie" Carfano and the persistently missing Anthony Strollo, alias Tony Bender, once "boss" of the Manhattan area known as Greenwich Village.

This phase of Valachi's activities has not been reported in the public prints. It was originally disclosed in 1958 by a small-time leader of a small local laundrette and coin machine workers.

His name is Charles Lichtman, who must have been thought of as old in some circles — for he persistently refused to permit the mobs to move in on his local. This was originally known as local 254 of the Laundry Employees Union, and later as the United Coin Machine Workers Union.

Many times hoodlums from other locals in this juke box, bar and restaurant field attempted to force Lichtman to give up his union charter. Once one of his aides, who was pretty tough himself, was lured into a garage, hit on the head, knocked to the floor and kicked in the chest.

ANOTHER TIME Lichtman was called to a "conference." He found the meeting room jammed with muscle men — and all the windows wide open. He got out fast.

Later he learned the "hosts" were not fresh air fiends. Some one was scheduled to be thrown out the open windows. Lichtman made sure it was not he.

Then, the attorney of a group of legitimate Westchester juke box owners and mechanics came to Lichtman. The lawyer asked the labor official to unionize members in Westchester County, so the hoodlums could not take over.

Lichtman tried. But there was too much pushing and shoving. Finally Lichtman was told by a goon to get out or he "would get himself hurt."

It was at this time that Joe Valachi appeared. He said to Lichtman that everything could be straightened out. All that was needed was a conference with the boys. This meeting was held, Lichtman later told federal investigators.

According to government records, Lichtman went to a bar at 180 Street and Southern Blvd. in the Bronx. Some of the "Cosa Nostra" men were there. They gathered in a back room.

THEY HAD the power to decide just what union would have jurisdiction over juke boxes in Westchester — considered by many the wealthiest county in the United States.

Valachi told Lichtman to sit at the bar while the boys in the back room made their decisions. Mind you, they were talking not only of one county, but of taking over a huge chunk of New York State for their union operation.

Valachi then told Lichtman, in effect, that if he behaved himself and put four of the hoodlums on the union payroll, he could run a juke-box-coin machine union in that part of the State. Lichtman did what few would. He walked out.

Valachi and his group never quite made it. The man who now is spilling everything was arrested on a narcotics charge and sentenced to five years.

But there now is a mple evidence of the tie between the multi-million dollar narcotics operators and some unions.

A dollar is a dollar and there are lots of dollars in the dues of captured locals.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Sept. 26, the 269th day of 1963. There are 96 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1780, Lord Cornwallis led British troops into Charlotte, N.C. The ensuing battle with American Colonials prompted Cornwallis to refer to the city as a "hornet's nest." The city later adopted a hornet's nest as its emblem.

In 1799, the French defeated the Russians in the battle of Zurich. In 1831, Baltimore was the scene of the first and only convention held by the Anti-Masonic National party.

In 1890, Congress voted to discontinue minting $3 and $1 gold pieces.

In 1936, Holland, France and Switzerland abandoned the gold standard.

In 1954, the Japanese ferry Toya Maru capsized during a typhoon with the loss of 1,172 lives.

Ten years ago... Spain authorized the United States to develop, maintain and use military bases in Spain in return for at least $226 million worth of economic and military aid.

One year ago... The State Department announced that the United States had agreed to sell defensive missiles to Israel.

Fixing The Blame

By David Lawrence

Reason, Law Seen Answer To Race Issue

At last the eyes of the law are on a trouble-making group in Birmingham which has been playing a mysterious role in Alabama and elsewhere to the consternation of both those citizens who favor and those who oppose integration of the public schools.

Just why should an organization call David Lawrence itself a "National States Rights Party" and adopt a name that has been used in previous years in the South by persons who had no connection with racial demonstrations?

Just why should such a comparatively new group — composed to no small extent of individuals from outside the state and Canada — issue a monthly newspaper in Birmingham which has been printing scurrilous and baseless attacks on the personal life of President Kennedy and other articles impugning the patriotic motives of prominent persons in the North, with bitter attacks especially on Catholics and Jews? What has all this to do with states' rights?

A federal grand jury has just indicted some of the members of this so-called "states' rights" group — all of them white — for alleged conspiracy to interfere with a court order and some for allegedly obstructing by violence the process of law enforcement in desegregating public schools.

Two white boys — arrested and charged with shooting a 13-year-old Negro boy a few hours after a Negro church was bombed on Sept. 15 in Birmingham — had just attended an impassioned rally held by the "states' rights" group.

Where does the money come from to finance such a mischief-making organization?

The time would seem to be ripe for the House Committee on Un-American Activities to subpoena records and ascertain whether any foreign funds have been coming to the Birmingham group. Again and again, in different parts of the world — especially in Latin America — groups that seem to be still espousing the Hitler-Nazi doctrines are found to have close links with Communist agents. What more natural way for the Communists to stir up trouble and friction?

THE WHOLE STORY of how the law-abiding people of Birmingham have been maligned through such incidents as the church bombings and otherwise will sooner or later be revealed. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has not been able under federal law to delve into crimes which are in the category of state offenses and can only come into a case where some specific federal statute is involved, such as transporting dynamite across state lines.

Before long it's conceivable that leads turned up by the FBI will disclose the perpetrators of the church bombings. In fact, there are rumors that such a breakthrough is not far distant.

Salvaging Dropouts

By Terry Ferrer

"So far, school has been one easy road downward and only now have I realized this. In the remaining year I have left you will notice some change made in both my attitude and scholastic ability. This talk has created a great change in my life. Your talk has convinced me of my ability to enter college. For all this I'm nothing but grateful.

"You ventured to say 'I'll bet on you' and I say 'It's a sure thing'."

This anonymous student is one of 1,700 in New York City who took part in a one-month crash drive by the Board of Education to reduce school dropouts.

The guidance project was conducted by only 11 counselors in six schools. The counselors interviewed, wrote or telephoned students who had not graduated from high school, those who had multiple failures, and those coming from junior into senior high school who had poor records — the potential dropouts.

NOW THE BOARD has announced the highly significant results of its effort. Some 1,500 of the 1,700 students approached have committed themselves to continue school this fall.

Paul J. Driscoll, coordinator of dropout program for city schools, admitted that he was "highly skeptical" of the guidance program when he took it over in August. But "look what happened," he said.

"The big thing is that somebody thought about those students and asked them to come in for an interview. This made all the difference — that somebody cared about them."

Driscoll, principal of a Brooklyn high school, said that the Meanwhile, it's reassuring to note that reason is beginning to be manifested in the racial controversy. President Kennedy has put aside demands for the use of federal troops and has sent an able team of two prominent men to Birmingham to help persuade civic leaders there that they can solve their difficulties locally by conference.

As has been pointed out in these dispatches, the series of contemplated "demonstrations" and "marches" in Southern cities should be halted, as they would not lead to a cooling of passions but rather to an intensification of bitter feelings among whites and Negroes.

IT'S PERTINENT to quote here, for the benefit of readers throughout the country, the wise counsel expressed in an editorial Tuesday by The Washington Post, which has from the start of the controversy been one of the staunchest advocates of integration of public schools and has criticized discriminatory practices generally. The Post says:

"Concern for civil rights and sympathy with Negroes in their struggle to realize those rights dictate a blunt, candid warning to Negro leaders. They are being urged by the organization known as the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee to change their strategy from peaceful protests, demonstrations and litigation to an organized and widespread campaign of civil disobedience and disruption of the economy."

They (the Negro leaders) will be under strong temptation and pressure to pursue such a course. It's a course, we are convinced, which can lead only to destruction and disaster.

"The proposal of the student group calls for a massive, uniformed army trained and prepared to obstruct the use of government buildings, airports, highways, railroad tracks and other public facilities. This 'army' would be unarmed and non-violent; it would anticipate arrests in great numbers for the purpose of filling up jails and overtaking the police."

"Although the proposed 'army' would neither attack nor resist and would make a principle of 'non-violence,' it would, of course, inevitably invite and foment violence...."

"But in the end it's upon courts and upon the rule of law that Negroes must rely. It's folly — runous folly — for those who depend upon the law to deride and defy it...."

"THE STRATEGY of militant civil disobedience for Negroes in the United States would impose upon them an absolute and damaging separation from the white community — when the real goal of the civil rights movement is full integration."

Maybe a congressional committee should take a look at the previous background of the personnel and also inquire into the sources of all the financial aid that may have been received by some of the various organizations which seem so anxious to foment trouble inside the United States.

board sent $14,000 of about $17,000 made available under a grant from the U.S. Manpower Development and Training Administration.

"That's cheap enough for these results," Driscoll said. "If we had enough counselors, we could help so many more."

And the project will continue this month, from Sept. 16 to 30, in an effort to win as many as 7,500 boys and girls back to school.

Some 250 counselors at 76 academic and vocational high schools will be getting in touch with pupils who have dropped out, "and inviting them to come back to the school they left."

Counseling will be done in the evening to reach the maximum number of ex-pupils who may be working days. The cost, $20,000, three months, $5.50 a month.

He is Robert T. Harding, 1011 May St., who is scheduled to undergo a physical exam before his name is certified to the appointing authority, the Board of Public Utilities.

The vacancy was created when James Mitchell, an operator, was appointed sewage department maintenance man after scoring the high grade in a promotional exam.

Freeway speed limits have been 60 mph. outside cities, although many areas have been zoned up to 65 mph. Inside municipalities freeways have been marked at 35 to 50 mph., depending on the area.

The higher freeway speeds will apply to all vehicles except school buses, and trucks and commercial tractors weighing over 4,000 pounds empty. They will continue to observe speed limits of 55 mph. outside municipalities and 50 mph. inside.

The Ohio Turnpike Commission also announced that it will raise the speed limit on the toll road from 65 to 70 mph., effective at the same time.

There will be no change in the state speed law on other than freeways. It will continue at 60 mph. daytime and 50 mph. at night. School buses, trucks and commercial tractors over 4,000 pounds empty, are limited to 50 mph. at all times.

Another new law effective Monday will require that motorists involved in an accident on public or private property off the highway, such as shopping centers, school grounds, etc., must stop and supply information to those affected by the accident.

The driver must give both his name and address and that of the car owner, as well as the license number and, if available, show his operator's license.

If not supplied at the scene, the information must be furnished within 24 hours to the sheriff of the county in which the accident occurred, and also include the date, time and location.

A law requiring similar information on accidents occurring on streets and highways went into effect about a month ago.

Also effective Monday will be an amendment to the Ohio house trailer tax law aimed at tightening exemptions for trailers used for travel and recreation.

The new law will provide an exemption for a "travel trailer" built on a chassis, not exceeding 4,500 pounds factory equipped and not over 30 feet long, and used as a "temporary dwelling for travel, recreation and vacation use." The old law exempted house trailers used "exclusively for camping or any other recreational use."

Crash Injures Man, Woman

A Salineville area man and woman were injured in a head-on collision between their car and another on County Rd. 406 near Hanoverton in one of three area accidents reported Wednesday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Harley Fred Richards and Alice Marie Richards of Salineville R. D. 2 were taken to Salem City Hospital after the collision last night at 6:45 about a mile south of Hanoverton.

Richardson, 63, was headed north when his car was struck by an approaching auto operated by William B. Hagan, 22, of Hanoverton R. D. 1 who had rounded a curve on the wrong side, officers said.

Richards was treated for a laceration of the scalp, and his passenger was in "fairly good" condition with bruises of the leg, fractured ribs and a neck injury at the hospital.

Damage to the two vehicles was heavy, officers said, and Hagan was cited for driving left of center.

Seward E. Williams, 48, of Lisbon R. D. 3 was cited for driving left of center after his car and one operated by a Pennsylvania woman sideswiped on a narrow road a mile north of Negley at 5:40 p. m.

The patrol said his car and one operated by Carol Shableski, 22, of Koppel collided on Township Rd. 951. Neither driver was hurt, officers added.

A tractor-trailer rig operated by Clifford Jackson, 43, of Youngstown overturned on Route 170 about a mile north of Unity yesterday afternoon when the load suddenly shifted.

Jackson was charged with improper loading.

Bridge Work Due To Start

The Tri-State Asphalt Co. of Martins Ferry expects to begin on area projects, including the resurfacing of the roadway of the Chester Bridge.

An official of the firm said the work will resume when the resurfacing of Route 66 below Newell is completed. Tri-State started the West Virginia job earlier, but delayed the project temporarily to handle another program.

Tri-State was low with $88,291 for the area projects when bids were opened earlier this month.

The project, besides the bridge work, includes Route 7 in Wellsville for four-tenths of a mile, Route 39 in Salineville for 0.97 of a mile and Route 213 in Knox and Saline Townships for 5.1 miles.

The deadline for blacktopping projects in the state is Oct. 15, according to Earl Nelson, Division 11 deputy director.

Tri-State said it is allowed to close the bridge one-day while paving. The schedule will be announced later.

For Old Soldiers

DODGE CITY, Kan. — Established in 1864 to protect settlers and travelers from bands of marauding Indians along the Santa Fe trail, Ft. Dodge is still in use. The ancient stone buildings five miles east of Dodge City now house the Kansas State Soldiers Home.

Water Cutoff Only An Hour

Wellsville residents were without water for only an hour, half the anticipated time, while a new valve was installed for a fire hydrant at 5th and Commerce Sts. Wednesday night.

The water was turned off at 6 p. m. and service was restored at 7, according to Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare.

The crew made the excavation Wednesday morning and was ready to begin work as soon as the pressure was cut, he said.

The new valve was installed first so service could be restored.

The men are installing the hydrant today. This is the fifth new hydrant placed this summer and the third valve. Another was put in last week on Broadway between 2nd and 3rd Sts. Steel posts were erected around to guard it from trucks and cars.

Steel rails also will be put in around the hydrant being installed today, the director said.

Meanwhile, a load of blacktop patching was obtained today to patch streets to be seal-coated. No word has been received from the Ohio Valley Paving Corp., the contractor, as to when it expects to begin the improvement work.

Charged With Murder

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — William Banks, Columbus construction worker and ex-convict, accused in the slaying of Mrs. Mary Cross, 52, during a burglary last weekend has been charged with first-degree murder. Police lodged the charge after saying Banks confessed the beating, stabbing of the widow in her apartment.

August Living Cost Held Even, Report Reveals

WASHINGTON — The cost of living held even during August, the Labor Department said.

The consumer price index remained at the July level of 107.1 per cent of the 1957-59 base period.

A spokesman for the Bureau of Labor Statistics said that present indications are that the September index reading will show about the same level.

In the May-July period of this year, the index rose by about 1 per cent. The August standing of 107.1 means that it cost $10.71 to buy the same consumer items that could have been bought in the 1957-59 period for $10.

In August, lower food prices, particularly for fresh fruits and vegetables, offset higher transportation and recreation costs to keep the price index constant.

However, the index was 1.5 per cent higher than in August, 1962, mainly because of higher price levels for food and housing.

New Date Set For Tax Case

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted a continuance until Oct. 8 in the case of Rayford Johnson, 1234 Chaffin St., who was haled before the court on charges of violating the city income tax law.

Johnson pleaded guilty to an affidavit signed by Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson alleging the East End man failed to file a final return on his 1962 income and failed to file an estimate on 1963 earnings.

Judge Chertoff granted the continuance after Johnson promised to pay the amounts allegedly due at the tax office on Oct. 8. Quered by the court, the tax commissioner said Johnson owes $31.

Of 10 other defendants scheduled to appear today, seven have paid or made arrangements to pay and three could not be located at the addresses furnished by the tax office.

Wilkinson advised the court the payments have been made by Walter L. Smith, 1102 Riverview St., John Swager, 1165 Pennsylvania Ave., John Jones of Shady-side Ave. and John Ryan, 215 W. 7th St.

Arrangements to pay were made by Raymond Boyd, 1647 Cleveland Ave., Frank Dandridge, 365 Briar Alley, and Fred White, rear 457 1st Ave.

Charges of tax law violations have been filed to date against approximately 40 persons. Wilkinson said he intends to file charges against 10 more by next Wednesday.

Bailiff Wilbert P. Taylor advised the court he could not locate three more defendants at addresses listed by the tax office. The defendants and the addresses listed for them were: Ralph C. Goldsmith Jr., 908 Florence St., George Clark, 321 E. 2nd St., and John F. Cunningham, 106 W. Church Ln.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruze —

Dear Heloise: How could you wash dishes if you didn't have a dishwasher?

PITIFUL.

DEAR PITIFUL: For years I washed dishes like this: I scraped them, rinsed them under the cold water faucet and stacked 'em either in one side of the sink or on the drainboard.

I plugged the sink up. Poured in my detergent. Turned on the hot water faucet full blast and let 'er run. I used no cold water. First I put my silverware in. Placed dishes on top of this, then the glasses around the sides.

Then I forget them. . . . After the water was completely cold (and not before) I pulled the plug from the sink and let the detergent water drain completely.

I turned on the hot water faucet (and for heaven's sake if you don't have one of those little dime store spray gadgets that fit on your faucet. . . run. . . don't walk, to your nearest dime store and buy one), took a little vegetable brush and rinse the dishes. Set them in my dish drainer to drain.

I NEVER did use the place in the dish drainer to drain silverware. I always stood my silver vertically in a jar. Prevents spotting because the water drains DOWN and OFF the silver. I placed silver with knife blades and fork tines UP.

Some good points about this method are:

It saves your hands. They are not in the hot water (140 degree temperature practically cooks 'em). Neither are they in harsh detergents which is bad for cuticles and fingernails.

You save time. You can save approximately 15 minutes each dishwashing session if this method is used. (Test it yourself. I did!) This is also 15 minutes you are not standing on your feet. Women have an extremely bad stance when washing dishes. This causes back aches, too.

But the best part of this method is that psychologically your kitchen is clean.

NATURALLY each pan has been washed as soon as the vegetables are emptied from it. Just use that little scrub brush, turn on that wonderful spray gadget and wash them while the food is still warm and soft. It's easier.

Rinse under hot water faucet and turn up-side-down to dry WHILE YOU ARE EATING DINNER. Then all you have to do is put them away. Pots and pans are half the battle of a clean kitchen.

With the drainboard clean (first put the pans away as soon as you come into the kitchen) and your dishes under nice hot suds and water. . . my, does that kitchen look nice. No depression sets in this way! At least I found it so.

Another thing I find that saves time is:

These SAME dishes are usually the very ones we will use at the NEXT meal. So why not just leave them in your drainer until you are ready to set the table again (if you are a real fanatic you could cover them with a clean dish cloth or piece of pretty plastic) I used to take the dish drainer to the dining room table with all the dishes still in it and wow. . . was that a good idea!

SET THE TABLE and empty

the drainer in one procedure and all in one trip! Why should we waste time taking the dishes out of the drainer, putting them in the cabinet and only a few hours later removing the same dishes?

Clock yourself. See how many minutes it takes you to empty your dishdrainer and put the dishes away. Then. . . add the minutes it takes you to remove those same dishes from the cabinet AGAIN and set the table. Multiply this by the number of meals you expect to cook in a lifetime and glory be. . . you could take vacation with the time you have saved.

What few dishes are left, can then be put away.

Don't waste 15 minutes of valuable time and energy standing on your feet and cooking 10 pretty fingers when it's quite unnecessary. Do it the easy way, gals. HELOISE

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Aids Offered For Helping Child Spell

As soon as your school child begins to write words or sentences he must learn how to spell. Even before he is required to express ideas in writing at school, he may wish to write a letter to a friend. When he does so, you have an opportunity to help him spell each word correctly. Dr. Garry Meyers

Be ready and eager to spell any word he asks you to spell. And if he asks you to read a letter he has written, get him to re-write it if he has spelled any word wrong.

When he begins at home to prepare written work for school inspect his work and persuade, even require, him to rewrite it if it has a misspelled word or if it is not neatly done. It's important to instill in him from his early school years a desire to spell correctly all the words he writes — to help him cultivate a good spelling conscience.

IF YOU ARE irked when your child, while writing something, asks you how to spell a word, and if you don't inspect his written work for school, he may grow careless about spelling and guess at how a word is spelled when he is not sure. Such an inclination to guess is the "broad road" which leads to bad spelling.

Before your child can make good progress in spelling, he needs to know the alphabet and some of the simple sounds of single and combined letters. The first thing you should do if your child in the second, third or higher grade finds it hard to spell, is to ascertain how familiar he is with the ABC's and their simplest sounds.

If you find that he has not mastered these basics, don't express astonishment or anger; just patiently help him learn them. You may help him in this direction by practicing him in the spelling of simple, short, familiar words which rhyme, such as hat, cat, rat, bat, and words which have the same beginning letter and sounds as box, boat, bowl, board; or with words which begin with two letters that make a single sound as chair, chain, child, church.

YOU MIGHT draw pictures of each word or help him find and cut out such pictures from old magazines or newspapers.

Later you may help him see two or more syllables in a word. Begin them with words made up of two familiar words like dishpan, blackboard, boyfriend, earthworm.

Even if the child of the third, fourth or higher grade knows the letters and their basic sounds, he might still be a poor speller. He may try to spell all the words phonetically. Unfortunately, many words — even short and simple words — are not spelled the way they sound. Examples are of, rough, phone. The correct spelling of these he just has to memorize.

You can help him learn to spell them correctly by having him completely master the correct spelling of just one word before he moves on to study the spelling of another word.

It's very effective to have this word alone on a card before him. Have him look carefully at the word (after he knows its meaning), pronounce the word aloud, then while looking right at this word, spell it carefully.

Don't let him try himself out on its spelling yet, but have him pronounce the word again and spell it again while looking carefully at it. He should repeat this whole performance several more times before trying to spell the word without looking at it. It might be well to have him write it, but, if he does, he should look back and forth at the word as he writes it.

IF HE STUDIES a list of spelling words assigned as homework, he will want you to pronounce them to test him before he has learned to spell all, or even most of them, correctly. As soon as he errs, or pauses on a single word, have him go back and study the words carefully and well before you try him out on them again. Make accuracy your slogan.

My bulletins, "Home Helps for Poor Spellers" and "Home Fun with Phonics," may be secured by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

Lion Tamers, Misfits, Loons

To judge by the first wave of new TV shows this season, the undergraduates of our schools are advanced mental cases, the men of our armed forces are malingers, our circus performers are severely tetchy, too, and only our psychiatrists should be allowed out at night. Well, I suppose it would be difficult to build a dramatic series around the activities of a vicarage in Dolebury Downs, England, or a B'nai Brith chapter in Syracuse, N.Y.

But it would be refreshing, I think, if on occasion we could explore the problems of someone who has just passed an inkblot test with flying colors.

Alan Gill

THE LION TAMER in the opening episode of "The Greatest Show on Earth" was a repugnant, vengeful man who, poor fellow, left one of his legs in a lion's digestive tract some time ago.

And he wouldn't be happy again until he'd gotten even by nudging Johnny Slate, the circus boss, into the cage with an out-of-sorts lion.

Slate, as played by Jack Palance, has a way about him that would make the hungriest lion back off. Old Leo, last week, took to his heels — if that's the word I'm looking for — after only a couple of taps from Johnny Slate's cane, but not until he had chewed for a moment upon the villain's shirt front.

Slate, as he walked the lion tamer across the sawdust floor, was heard to remark: "The debt is paid now, pal. Maybe you can start living again."

HE MAY, but will "The Greatest Show on Earth?"

This first story was a repugnant one, and it's wholly likely the series will continue in this vein.

The outer trappings of a circus are colorful as penny candy and stirring as a five-alarm fire.

But tell a dramatist you want him to whip up a yarn about a circus and his mind immediately begins to fasten upon the home life of a tattooed lady, the terrors of an aerialist flying toward a trapeze that's off course, the problems confronting a tightrope artist who loads up on martinis at lunch, the midnight thoughts of an animal trainer who has lost his nerve, the pathos of the clown who is no longer funny, the predicament of the man who gets shot out of a cannon but is sensitive to noise.

FOR DRAMATIC PURPOSES, the personal conflicts beyond the big tent are gamy at best and "The Greatest Show on Earth" is stuck with this sad fact. It must concern itself not with the glitter but with the broken limbs and shattered lives of the performers.

The best it can say to its victims is, "Maybe you can start living again."

And that's not a very consoling or even entertaining message to leave with millions of potential viewers every week.

The disturbed people who fall into the hands of TV's psychiatrists, on the other hand, generally come from less bizarre surroundings.

The problem child on "Breaking Point's" opener last week was saddled with the mistaken belief that he, at an early age, had been responsible for the murder of his mother. Once this fantasy was cleared up, though he had a clarinet to go home to, and Millie Perkins.

His father was Oscar Homolka (in an ugly mood) but the boy could always get lodgings across the street.

"BREAKING POINT" deals in nightmares, but it leaves itself an escape hatch; and for that reason it may become a satisfying series.

Its hero, Paul Richards, looks and behaves like the popular conception of a psychiatrist. And the guest star on opening night, Scott Marlowe, was first rate.

I would guess that "Breaking Point" is in for a run, but I wouldn't put 25 cents on the future of "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Lose Those Vacation Pounds

Everybody loves to eat... particularly on vacation on the American plan. With someone else doing the cooking, it's only natural to toss calorie caution to the sea breezes and live it up. In this battle of the bulge, timing is everything. Right now is the time to snub your appetite up short.

Ida Jean Kain

If you gained 5 pounds or, alas, 10... take them off, without further procrastination. Why the need for haste? Because 5 pounds can soon get you 10... and I kid you not, 10 pounds can grow into 20.

HERE'S WHAT happens. On vacation you upped your appetite, the term the late Dr. Norman Jolliffe gave to the appetite regulating mechanism. Just two weeks of overeating can elevate the appetite and upset the natural habit pattern that regulates your food intake.

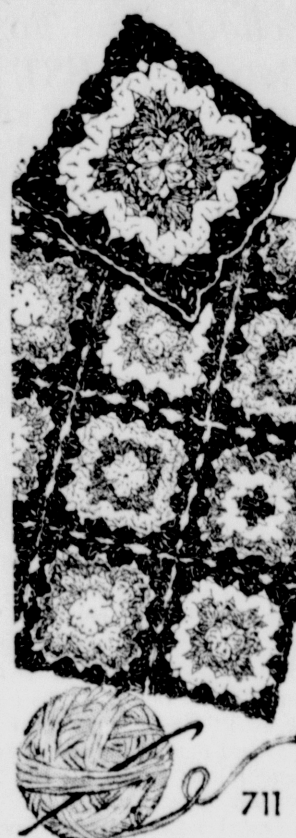

The good news: Recently added pounds come off fairly easily. It won't be too difficult to break the habit of eating to satiety, provided you take action before the nip in the air ups your appetite still further. It's later than you think...

Ordinarily Monday is diet day... and by Thursday you slip off the diet and eat as usual. Reverse this routine and plan a slimming week-end.

How do you set about cutting appetite down to slimming size? By taking smaller portions. Be a gourmet dieter... savor food for flavor, but cut down on quantity. Decide to eat more slowly. The process of chewing in itself helps to appease appetite since chewing is a part of the normal satisfaction of hunger.

TRY EATING more slowly. Completely finish the forkful of food you are eating and enjoying before you take a second fork-

Only Palestine Schools Due To Return To EST

All but one school district in the Tri-State area will remain on Daylight Saving Time through Oct. 27. Three dropped the fast time in September last year.

A check with school officials shows only East Palestine classes returning to the "slow" time Monday, when some states and communities that went to the summer time in April will go back to Eastern Standard Time Sept. 29.

While East Palestine schools will return to "slow" time, the city of East Palestine will operate on "fast" time until Oct. 27.

Extra-curricular school activities and football games in East Palestine will begin on DST, however, officials said.

School in Wellsville will remain on DST until Oct. 27. In the past, Wellsville's schools returned to standard time at the end of September even though the city remained on fast time.

East Liverpool, Beaver Local, Southern Local, Stanton Local, Hancock County, Midland, Western Beaver County and Southern Beaver County schools also will continue on DST another month.

Cleveland Arrested

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — Police here have arrested James L. Dalecke, 37, of Cleveland for investigation concerning a $36,000 theft of American Express Co. money orders in Columbus, Ohio, July 19. Dalecke was picked up after trying to cash a money order described as one of those taken in the armed robbery of an express company representative.

500 Buy BOP Lapel Button; Committee Continues Sales

Five hundred East Liverpool residents have bought lapel buttons and car bumper stickers with the cryptic letters BOP since the campaign was launched Sept. 1, the sponsoring committee reported today.

Five hundred more of the buttons and stickers remain to be sold. The pair is being offered in a combination deal at a minimum of 50 cents.

Purchasers must take them on good faith alone, as the committee has announced only that the sale is to provide funds for a civic project for the betterment of East Liverpool.

Meanwhile, the committee reiterated that the meaning of the cryptic letters will be explained publicly next Tuesday and at the same time the purpose of the civic project will be revealed.

After the date, any person who feels he has contributed to a cause he does not wish to support will be permitted to apply to the committee for a refund, sponsors said. The committee's membership will be revealed at the same time the meaning of BOP and the purpose of the campaign are explained.

The big lapel buttons show white letters on a blue field. The bumper placards are in fluorescent orange on a black background.

The campaign was launched over the Labor Day weekend when members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce volunteered to place the buttons on sale at the Jaycee-sponsored regatta on the Ohio River.

Sponsors said the buttons and bumper stickers are available from many business places and individuals who volunteered to sell them on the committee's word that the project is for a civic cause.

The so-called BOP kits are available from: Frank Crook Co., Bloor's Pharmacy, First National Bank, Veterans Social Club, Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate and Patrolman Orin Smith.

Hancock Youths May Take Part In Conservation

Hancock County youth groups are eligible to participate in a West Virginia Youth Conservation program being launched by the Department of Natural Resources and the Sears Roebuck Foundation.

Oliver Johnson, county agricultural agent, said cash grants of $500 are available.

To be eligible, a group must limit its participation to one project, such as landscaping a school lawn, a litterbug campaign, air pollution or water pollution elimination, game violations or recreational development.

Meanwhile, county pastors and church leaders have been invited to participate in a statewide conference on "The Church and Area Development" at Jacksons Mill, the state 4-H Camp Oct. 21-23.

Mrs. Ruth McPherson, county club agent, said youths are to make reservations at the extension office Tuesday to attend the four-state Young Men and Women's Conference Oct. 11-13 at Jacksons Mill. It will feature conferences and tours and worship services for those between 17 and 30.

Ohio's Employment Off 1.3% From July

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Total employment in Ohio, at 3,715,000 workers in August, was down 1.3 per cent from July, according to the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation. Administrator Willard P. Dudley said much of the decline was in agricultural jobs. Due mainly to layoffs in the automobile industry during the changeover to new models, Dudley said, nonagricultural employment was down .5 of one per cent. He reported that unemployment remained at 4.4 per cent of the labor force. Average pay of factory production workers in August was $115.09.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl almost 17 who has an unusual problem.

I have boy friends galore. I could have two dates every single night in the week if I wanted them. And I'm not what you would call beautiful, either. I just seem to attract fellows. It's been this way since I was 13.

My problem is I don't have one girl friend to my name. Girls just don't like me, Ann. I feel badly about this, although I try not to show it. But I would gladly give 20 boy friends if I could have just one girl friend who actually liked me.

Can you help me? I don't recall ever having seen this problem in your column before. Thank you. — HALF LONELY.

Dear Lonely: The best way to get friendship is to give it. You probably have shied away from girls and behaved indifferently toward them because you assumed they didn't like you. And quite naturally, these girls reacted to your coolness.

When you are next in a group with both boys and girls make a special effort to pay attention to the girls instead of the boys. Warmth begets warmth — as you will see.

Picture That

Dear Ann: I wrote you in May about an unfaithful husband. I took your advice and things seem to be a great deal better. Now I have another problem.

I recently learned that the two paintings hanging in our living room were done by this other woman and not a gift from a business associate as my husband told me when he brought them home. I've always liked the paintings and they have hung in our home for almost four years. Now that I know who did the paintings I get sick at my stomach whenever I look at them.

Last night I told my husband how I felt and he said I was being silly — that he likes the pictures and that I should let them hang. He swears the affair is over between him and this woman (and I have every reason to believe him) and that therefore removing the pictures would be silly.

May we hear from you on this? — BUTTERFLIES IN MY BRAIN.

Dear Brain: People often move art when they redecorate. Doesn't your living room need new wallpaper or paint? Aren't you tired of the furniture in the same place for four years?

Perhaps it's time to move things around a little. Those paintings might look better in the hall for a few weeks — and then in the attic.

Amorous Uncle

Dear Ann: I need an older person to tell me what to do and it can't be anyone who knows me, so you are elected.

I'm a 14-year-old girl who is far from beautiful but I have lots of friends. Three weeks ago my mother's stepbrother, Joe, moved to this city to go to work for my dad. This stepuncle is about 33 years old. He was married seven years ago but is divorced now.

Uncle Joe is staying in our house and I wish he would get out and find a place of his own. He is always pawing me and pulling me on his lap. Whenever he sits next to me he tries to hold my hand. Last night he tried to talk to me about some very personal things which are none of his business.

I told my Mom this morning that Uncle Joe is fresh and she said the trouble with teen-age girls today is they all think they are Elizabeth Taylor and that every man is after them.

I am not imagining things. Please help me. — DOLLY.

Dear Dolly: In time your Uncle Joe will do or say something which is unmistakably out of line. When he does, go to your father — not your mother — and give him chapter and verse. In the meantime stay plenty alert and do not remain in the house with him unless another adult is present.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Coming Off Tie With Ferry

New Philly Hasn't Hit Victory Column But 0-2-1 Record May Be Deceiving

The East Liverpool Potters won't be paying any attention to New Philadelphia's football record Friday night, because it is more deceiving than Blackstone the magician.

New Philly finds itself in a position where the Quakers have everything to gain by defeating the Potters and little to lose.

New Philadelphia has lost two games and tied one, and with the two losses apparently isn't going anywhere near the top Ten in Buckeye football circles this season.

The Quakers opened the season with a 28-8 loss to a strong Wooster club, then dropped a 22-8 decision to Lou Venditti's Canton Lincoln squad. Last week New Philly rose to great heights to surprise Martins Ferry with a 14-14 tie.

While their record might not advance them to the top, the Quakers seem to thrive on teams which are ranked.

Martins Ferry had this experience last week when the Purple Riders moved into New Philadelphia ranked third in the state on the United Press International Poll, carrying a 2-0 record.

Ferry had to struggle to gain the tie and was fortunate to come away even.

Many observers felt that since Ferry was ranked so high, it brought out the best in the Quakers.

The same situation may prevail Friday night when the Potters journey to New Philadelphia. This week Coach Bob Hedmond's squad was voted eighth in the Associated Press poll, the highest the Potters have been rated since the 1959 season when they knocked off highly-ranked Warren.

The Review Sports

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1963 PAGE 16

East Liverpool will have to be on the alert early because New Philly strikes fast.

This was the case in the Martins Ferry game when the Quakers shocked their opponent with two first-period touchdowns and a 14-0 edge at halftime.

Martins Ferry came back to score eight points in the third quarter, then late in the fourth period the Riders received their big break.

New Philly was in a punting situation in the final period. A bad pass from center sailed over the kicker's head and Ferry recovered on the Quakers' seven.

New Philly held for three downs, but with a fourth and goal situation from the one, Ferry scored the touchdown to tie the game with 4:36 left. A placement try for the conversion, which would have given Ferry a victory, was no good.

East Liverpool will have two main threats to stop Friday night. Rated an outstanding ball carrier is Terry Keiser, a 160-pound letterman who carried for 208 yards in 42 tries and has two touchdowns to his credit.

At fullback is Dale Tate, a giant 220-pounder, who the Potters were fortunate to stop last season. The big fullback has picked up 132 yards in 34 carries.

Coach Al Christopher will field a team similar to that of the Potters since several are two year lettermen. Like Hedmond, Christopher is in his third season and figures this is the year New Philly would reach its peak.

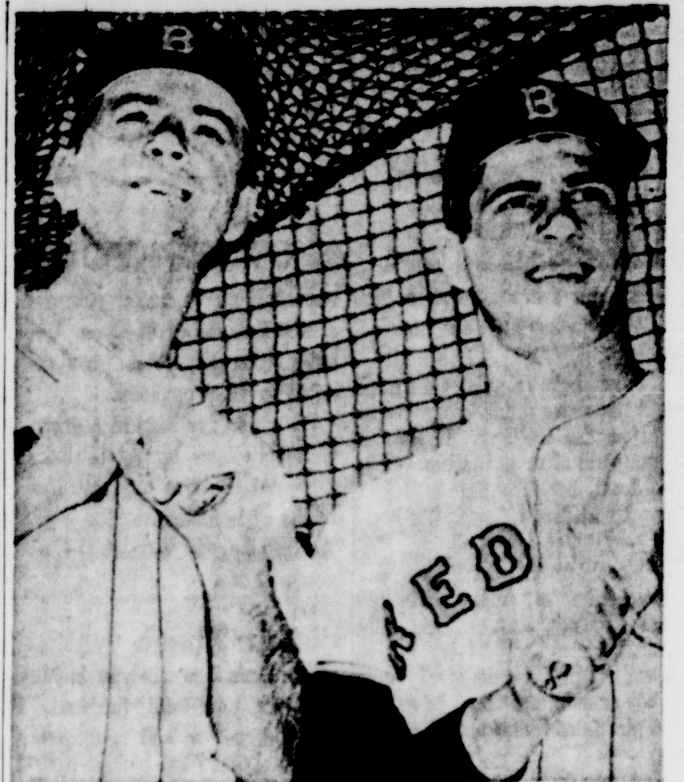

Rounding out the starting backfield are two other lettermen — Mark Francis, 155-pound junior quarterback who won a letter at halfback last season, and Tom Fragasse, 148-pound senior letterman, at a halfback spot.

The New Philly line will average 183 pounds, slightly under that of the Potters. Starting at the end positions will be Bob Celce (177) and Eric Gribble (190) and Big Dan Mamula (220) will go at the tackles. The guard spots will be held down by Dan Johnston (180) and Doug Coates (155), while Cuyler Trachsel (170) will open at center.

All the linemen lettered last season with the exception of Coates, a junior.

Hedmond announced that sophomore linebacker Clarence Crable and starting guard Ron Echols complained of sore throats Wednesday at practice and were ill today. "They remain questionable starters at this time," Hedmond said.

Halfback Bob Mercer has fully recovered from a bruised ankle and halfback Earl Olmstead who has been taking it easy in practice this week is reported sound.

ALTHOUGH THE Boston Red Sox are in 7th place in the American League standings, Dick Stuart (left) has hit 42 home runs, trailing leader Harmon Killebrew of the Twins by three. Stuart leads in RBI's with 118. Carl Yastrzemski (right) leads the league with a .321 average and with 39 doubles. (UPI Telephoto)

Mays Could Win NL Batting Title

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Watch Willie Mays, baseball's bounciest convalescent. He may be the first guy to win a batting title with an off-year.

The San Francisco Giants' center fielder, who fought through a protracted slump and then was forced into a four-game layoff with nervous exhaustion early this month, is on a hitting tear.

Willie went 4-for-4 Wednesday—a triple, two doubles and a single—although the Giants were beaten by Philadelphia 6-4, and powered himself right into the middle of the scrap for the National League batting title.

Mays was hitting .301 when he was sidelined, and in a phenomenal climb since then he has raised his average to .317. He's currently on a 13-game hitting streak, 25-for-53 and a .472 clip.

Ahead of Mays in the scramble for the batting crown are:

Defending champion Tommy Davis of the pennant-winning Los Angeles Dodgers—he's at .323 after two singles in three trips in a 1-0 triumph over the New York Mets. Sandy Koufax won his 25th in that one, and became the fourth pitcher in major league history to strike out 300 in one season.

Dick Groat of St. Louis—batting .320 after two hits in five tries as the second-place Cardinals ended a six-game losing string by beating the Chicago Cubs 5-2.

Orlando Cepeda of the Giants—whacked a three-run homer in four appearances and has a .319 mark. His blow was matched by a three-run pinch hit homer by Don Demeter and a two-run shot by Johnny Callison in a seventh-inning rally that gave the Phils the victory.

Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves—got his 43rd homer for a .318 average, helping Warren Spahn beat the Cincinnati Reds 9-5. Spahn, 22.7 for the year and with 349 victories in a magnificent career, also homered.

And Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates—went 1-for-4 in a 2-1 defeat at Houston and slipped to .318. The Phils took this one with a two-run uprising in the seventh after being blanked on two hits by Tom Sisk through six.

New York's American League

champion Yankees took only one hour and 38 minutes to dispose of the Los Angeles Angels 3-1. Hard-throwing Jim Bouton warmed up for a World Series start with a seven-inning workout for his 21st victory, allowing three hits and facing only 15 men in his last five innings.

Bob Saverine, in his last game before starting a six-month Army hitch, got three hits and batted in two runs in leading Baltimore to a 10-2 romp over Chicago. White Sox rookie Gary Peters was rocked in his bid to become a 20-game winner.

Also in the AL—Ken Retzer, a .227 batter, rapped out four hits and knocked in five runs, leading Washington to a 6-2 victory over Detroit, and Ed Charles' sacrifice fly in the seventh inning delivered the clinching run as Kansas City edged Boston 7-6. Minnesota and Cleveland were not scheduled.

Koufax worked five shutout innings in the Dodgers' close one over the Mets, with eight strikeouts extending his NL record to 306. The lone run in the game came in the first when Wally Moon and Tommy Davis singled, and Moon scored on a wild pickoff attempt by Roger Craig.

Revolta Is Selected To PGA Hall Of Fame

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Johnny Revolta, known as the "doctor of golf professionals," was added today to the Professional Golfers Association Hall of Fame.

He joins 32 other golf greats previously honored. The latest was Ralph Guldahl, twice National Open champion selected earlier this month in a poll of the PGA membership.

Revolta was elected by present members of the Hall of Fame.

He won 27 tournaments during his pro career. He has been professional at the Evanston Golf Club, Evanston, Ill., for 26 years.

LA May Use 3 Pitchers For Series

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dodger Manager Walt Alton hasn't formally announced his World Series pitching rotation, but you can skip the formalities and safely assume it will be Sandy Koufax, Johnny Podres and Don Drysdale.

They're probably the only pitchers who will start for Los Angeles, even if the series goes seven games.

Koufax, of course, will start the series opener in New York next Wednesday against Whitey Ford. Podres will work the second game, also in New York, presumably against Al Downing.

Drysdale will start the first game in Los Angeles a week from Saturday, probably against Jim Bouton.

Podres gets into the rotation ahead of Drysdale for two reasons. First, John has given the Yankees trouble before—notably in the 1955 series, when he beat them twice. Second, Podres is a left-hander. New York has several strong left-handed hitters and the right-field seats at Yankee Stadium are almost within field goal range of home plate. At Dodger Stadium, the distance to the wall is the same in either direction.

Left-hander Ron Perranoski, the National League's foremost relief pitcher, will be joined in the Dodger bullpen by Larry Sherry, Ken Rowe, Bob Miller, Pete Richert and Dick Calmus. The last three have been used both as starters and relievers, but are not likely to start in the series unless one of the top three starters is hurt or woefully ineffective in the early games.

Craft Given Another Year With Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—Manager Harry Craft of the Houston Colts says when a team "carried as many kids as we did you have to be patient, or you'll crack up."

Craft made the remark after it was announced he would manage the National League Colts again in 1964.

Craft has been criticized by some who said he is too patient and not tough enough.

"I have never thought that being patient was a sign of weakness," he said. "I don't think that a lack of discipline has been one of our problems. I've handed out some fines, and some of them have been pretty stiff."

The announcement of Craft's rehiring by General Manager Paul Richards put an end to the speculation about his future and amused the 48-year-old Craft.

"I signed my contract a few days ago," he said. "It was up to them when they want to announce it."

Butler County Due Aid For Industrial Plans

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Butler County may receive state aid in developing its industrial tract in Union Township near Springdale.

Gov. James A. Rhodes conferred with county officials Wednesday while on the way to a plant ground breaking at Springdale, and the agenda included aid for extending water pipes and sewers in the area.

Opening Game Wednesday

Ford, Koufax Listed As Probable Starters For World Series Opener

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankee left-hander Whitey Ford, baseball's biggest World Series winner, will pitch the first game of the 1963 October classic, probably against Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax, at Yankee Stadium next Wednesday.

Yankee left-hander Al Downing and right-hander Jim Bouton will pitch the second and third games for the Yankees, manager Ralph Houk said today in making known his series plans. He did not specify the order of pitchers for the second and third games.

Houk said he would depend on just three starters, thus assigning Ralph Terry, pitching hero of the Yankees' 1962 World Series triumph over San Francisco, to bullpen duty.

Houk also said he planned to play his eight regulars, including

Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, in every game without resorting to platooning.

"I'm going to go with the pitchers who have done the best job during the regular season," the Yankee skipper said.

The same starting line-up which defeated the Giants in seven games last October will open against Los Angeles regardless of who pitches for the Dodgers.

"I understand the Dodgers are going to go with three pitchers, too — Koufax, Podres and Drysdale," said Houk. "I talked with Alton (Dodger Manager Walter Alton) during a radio interview and he came right out and said Koufax would pitch the first game."

"He said his second game choice lay between Podres and Drysdale."

Ford, whose 24 victories matches Koufax, will be seeking his 11th World Series triumph in the opener. He has lost five. Koufax, who has appeared in two World Series games, dropped his only decision in 1959. He was beaten 1-0 by the Chicago White Sox.

Judo, Karate School Will Begin Here

An open house demonstration Oct. 5 will introduce Chinese judo and karate to the district.

A new school will open at the Eagles Club with registration Oct. 6 from noon until 4 p. m. Ages run from 11 to 45.

Judo and karate, a means of self-defense without a weapon, will be taught by the head instructor Willy Wetzel, a native Indonesian who has known the art since childhood. Wetzel resides in Vanport, Pa.

At present there are only two schools in the United States one in Rochester, Pa. and the other in California which teach Chinese karate considered better than the Japanese techniques.

Wetzel, who has been a master since he was 17, has reached the highest level of karate.

Classes will be open to men and women.

Don Booth of East Liverpool will be among the beginning instructors at the new school.

A regular-size slice of bread, toasted or dried, will yield about one-third cup crumbs.

No Playoff For NFL, AFL Rozelle Says

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League has quashed an informal proposal by the rival American League that the two leagues meet in a post-season championship playoff.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. The comment came after AFL Commissioner Joe Foss said Wednesday his league might make a formal proposal to the NFL for a playoff in 1964.

"We have indicated in the past that we would like to meet them in a playoff," said Foss at a press luncheon. "Always in the past, their answer has been 'We don't consider playing games with people who are suing us.' We sued them because we thought our case had merit, but we lost. Now that is out of the way."

The AFL lost an appeal Monday on its $10-million monopoly suit against the NFL.

The 4-year-old AFL has made numerous overtures in the past to the 44-year-old NFL about a playoff game, but nothing has ever been formally proposed. And the NFL always has refused to elaborate on its "We have no plans for such a game" statement.

If the AFL should decide to make a formal proposal it would likely be made in late January when the NFL holds its annual meeting in Miami Beach.

Toledo, Milwaukee Place Ban On Night Grid Games

By The Associated Press

One of America's most cherished traditions — the Friday or Saturday night high school football game — may become passe because of the growth of rowdism and vandalism among the spectators.

The seriousness of the situation was highlighted recently when the city and Board of Education officials in Toledo, Ohio, and Milwaukee announced that all night games involving high school teams were being abandoned.

The schools were ordered to play in the afternoon.

The Toledo action was taken after a series of fights broke out following a Friday night game.

Four policemen were hurt in the disturbance. The Milwaukee City Council switched all games to Saturday afternoon because of what it called "unwarranted attacks and acts of vandalism."

Officials said no racial or religious problems apparently were involved.

Night high school play was banned in Providence, R.I., where officials said a major factor was "rowdism, fights and vandalism." Bridgeport, Conn., ended night high school games after a 14-year-old boy was stabbed. Chicago cut out night football games for public high schools in 1954.

In New York, where there are hundreds of high schools, only about three per cent play games at night and these are almost always at the suggestion of an outside rival. To play a night game, it is necessary to get special permission from the school board—given only when trouble is not likely to occur.

Stan Was Nearly Let Go As Hurler

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In his 22 years with the St. Louis Cardinals, Stan The Man Musial has proved himself as one of the genuinely great players of baseball.

No one bothers to argue that point any more. Wherever you choose to look, you can find evidence supporting the belief that Musial, through the years, has been the greatest star in National League history. Other players use him as their model. His employers use him as a showpiece for their organization. At the sunset of a glorious career, the 42-year-old wonder is still one of the most feared and respected hitters in all baseball.

So it seems impossible that at one time Musial was so erratic and so unimpressive that a minor league manager saw no future in him and recommended his release. But this is exactly what happened.

On August 15, 1939, the Cardinal front office received a report on Musial, then a young pitcher in his second pro season with a Class D team at Williamson, a small mountain town at the West Virginia-Kentucky border.

"The boy is quite a problem," read the report of Manager Harrison Wickel. "He is by far the wildest pitcher I have ever seen. He hasn't pitched a complete game here in ages and he must average at least 10 walks a game. . . I recommend his release because I don't believe he will ever be able to find the plate and if he should I don't think he has enough stuff to get by."

Nineteen-year-old Musial was in his second year of professional ball. He was earning $70 a month and sending $10 of it home regularly.

It is interesting to note that the manager added this footnote: "I am at a loss to say definitely what to do with him. He has the best of habits and is a fine boy."

"I don't blame him," said Musial as he recalled his minor league frustrations. "I was no ball of fire even if I did win 19 games at Daytona Beach the next year. That was when I hurt my shoulder so badly I couldn't pitch any more."

"I think that was the darkest point of my career," Stan added. Stan's father, a strong-willed Polish immigrant millworker, strongly objected to his son's choice of a baseball career over a college education but the young Musial had a staunch supporter in his mother.

Starting at $65 a month, Stan rose in stature and earning capacity to the point where he commanded a salary of $100,000 in 1958 and '59. His lifetime earnings with the Cardinals, exclusive of World Series cuts, amounted to $1,268,777.

Musial, after 25 years in baseball, is independently wealthy with numerous outside interests. He owns a half interest in what many consider the finest restaurant in St. Louis, is a principal stockholder and director of a suburban bank, owns a bowling alley and has large investments in stocks, bonds and real estate.

He lives with his wife and four of their five children in a $50,000 red-brick home in outlying St. Louis Hills.

Guglielmi Will Retire, Passes Up His Pension

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Guglielmi has made his last play as a professional football player, kicking away more than a $100-a-week pension he could have claimed merely by showing up for one game with the San Francisco 49ers.

Traded to the 49ers by the New York Giants earlier in the week, the 29-year-old former Notre Dame All-American decided Wednesday to retire. In doing so, he passed up an estimated $437 monthly pension, or $5,244 a year, he would start receiving at age 65.

Guglielmi said he was aware of the pension but he had been refused a no-cut contract by San Francisco and "would have been doing a grave injustice to myself and to the 49ers if I went out there just to play one game and be sure of a pension."

Guglielmi, a quarterback in the National Football League since 1955 at Washington, St. Louis and New York, said he would return to his insurance business in Washington, D.C.

Under the NFL's pension plan, a player must be on the active roster for at least three games a year in five years, starting in 1958, to become eligible. Guglielmi had played two games this year—and needed one more to qualify.

McKinley Faces British Star In Interzone Match

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — Chuck McKinley, dynamic American tennis star, sets out today to try to end the record of Britain's Mike Sangster and give the United States the jump in their Davis Cup tennis series.

The two meet in the opening singles of the interzone final at the West Hants Club.

Sangster has played 12 Davis Cup matches in Britain and won them all.

Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., will meet Billy Knight, British left-hander and hard courts specialist, in the second singles.

The doubles will be played Friday with the last two singles on Saturday. The winning team will play India to decide who plays Australia in the challenge round at Sydney in December.

McKinley, Wimbledon champion from St. Ann, Mo., has played Sangster three times in tournaments around the world and has won all three.

Rangers Cut Four

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — The New York Rangers cut four more hockey players today and assigned them to Baltimore of the American Hockey League. They are goalie Gilles Villemure, defenseman Bob Woytowich and forwards Ted Taylor and Dave Richardson.

Gunderson Confident Of British Golf Title

NEWCASTLE, Ireland (AP) — JoAnne Gunderson, three-time United States women's amateur golf champion, was confident today that she had a good chance of adding the British title to her collection.

The 24-year-old Providence, R.I. Curtis Cup star reached the quarter-finals Wednesday with a two-hole victory over Margaret Sullivan of Ireland.

JoAnne said "I feel I'm hitting the ball better and better."

Cup player from Broadmoor, Colo., lost by one hole to Julia Greenhalgh of England. Mrs. Anne Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, lost 2 and 1 to Irish champion Philomena Garvey.

Schools Offered Aid To Get Mouth Guards

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio Dental Association wants to help high schools comply with new state laws requiring mouth protectors for athletes in interscholastic contact sports, such as football.

In the closing convention session Wednesday, a clinic of delegates said dentists could teach vocational arts classes to make the protectors. Or, they said, local dental societies could make them from materials provided by school boards. Mouth protectors can cost up to $40 and acquiring a supply could be a hardship to some schools, the dentists noted.

Hanselman New Head Of Wellsville Rifle Club

Officers were elected at a meeting of the Junior Rifle Club sponsored by the Wellsville Jaycees Wednesday night at the City Hall.

Named were Sterling (Bud) Hanselman, president; Jim Mercer, vice president; Chris Shively, secretary, and Harry Rockhold, treasurer and executive officer.

The organization is completing its first year. The names of officers and members will be sent to the National Rifle Association on the application for charter renewal.

There are 35 members. Any boy from 12 to 18 or girl from 14 to 18 is eligible for membership.

The sharpshooters now are working on the DCM small-bore rifle course. This has to be fired annually in order to keep six target rifles supplied by the federal government. The supply of ammunition and targets also is determined by how many qualify.

A hunter safety course, free to members of the club, will be held during October. It will be open to 20. Non-members will be charged a small fee. A limited number of non-members can be handled.

In 1950, the NRA hunter safety program was instituted and now is taught in some form in 25 states. Those participating are instructed in the handling and use of firearms in the field. There are 13 states in which the course is mandatory before a person may obtain a license.

It is designed to encourage safe gun handling, operation of the gun, good shooting and hunter's responsibility. No attempt is made to teach marksmanship.

The first class will be at the high school Oct. 9 at 7 p. m. The second will be Oct. 23 at 7 p. m. All students will be given a written examination. If successful, they will be given a card and other materials.

The Ohio Wildlife Commission reported 202 hunters were trained in Columbiana County in 1962. The county had only one reported accident. There were 101 accidents in the state. Six were fatal. Forty-nine occurred in November, while the majority were in hunting rabbits and pheasants. Most of the mishaps were on clear days in relatively open territory at a range of less than 50 yards.

Eighty-four of the wounds were from shotguns and 49 percent of the victims were not wearing bright colored clothing. Most were by persons under 19 with one to four years hunting experience.

George Hardman of Russell Heights is the club leader. Dan MacLean, also of Russell Heights, is the instructor. They are aided by Tom Morris, 998 Main St.

Hayes Is Optimistic On OSU Grid Opener

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's football squad, putting the finishing touches to preparations for Saturday's opener here against Texas A & M, kept Coach Woody Hayes radiating optimism.

The Buckeye kicking game got special attention Wednesday. Placekicker Dick Van Raaphorst was booming them long and straight while Steve Dreffer and Don Unverferth practiced punting.

The Texas Aggies are due in Friday morning, and plan an afternoon loosening-up session in Ohio Stadium. This will be their first appearance here.

Junior Editors Quiz on FRUIT

QUESTION: Why are apples called pomes?

ANSWER: Fruits are of several main kinds. There are the berry, with many seeds embedded in its flesh; the dry-stone fruits, such as nuts; the drupes, like cherries and peaches, with a hard stone inside a soft body. Apples belong to still another group called pomes, from the Latin "pomum". Pome fruits develop as shown on the left. In (1), we see the cross section of an apple blossom. Inside the flower base, or receptacle, are several leaf-like "carpels" which will later enclose the seed. In (2) the flower has withered, but tissue from its various parts has begun to swell out around the carpel part, or "core". Tissue from the carpel also becomes greatly enlarged in (3) and in (4), with its bright red or yellow skin, it has become an apple, which many people regard as the king of fruits. Apples are not the only pomes. The pear, as our drawing shows, has a similar core and develops in the same way. Other pomes are the quince, haw and junberry.

FOR YOU TO DO: Slice an apple and look for a heart-shaped line in the flesh. Tissue outside this came from parts of the flower; inside, it was derived from the carpel part. But when you bite into it, it all tastes equally good.

Brenda Darter of Russellville, Ark., wins today's grand prize of a 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you too may win a set.
